NOTES

This 7km walk commences from the Northland Shopping Centre, and heads up the Darebin Creek Trail, ending at Plenty Rd via Bundoora Park. The path is mostly quite level, with a couple of short rising sections, and a gentle rise up from the creek into Bundoora Park. There is an option to exit the path at the halfway point, where the trail crosses Plenty Rd. There are rest points, but no service facilities along this section of path, other than at Northland and at Bundoora Park.

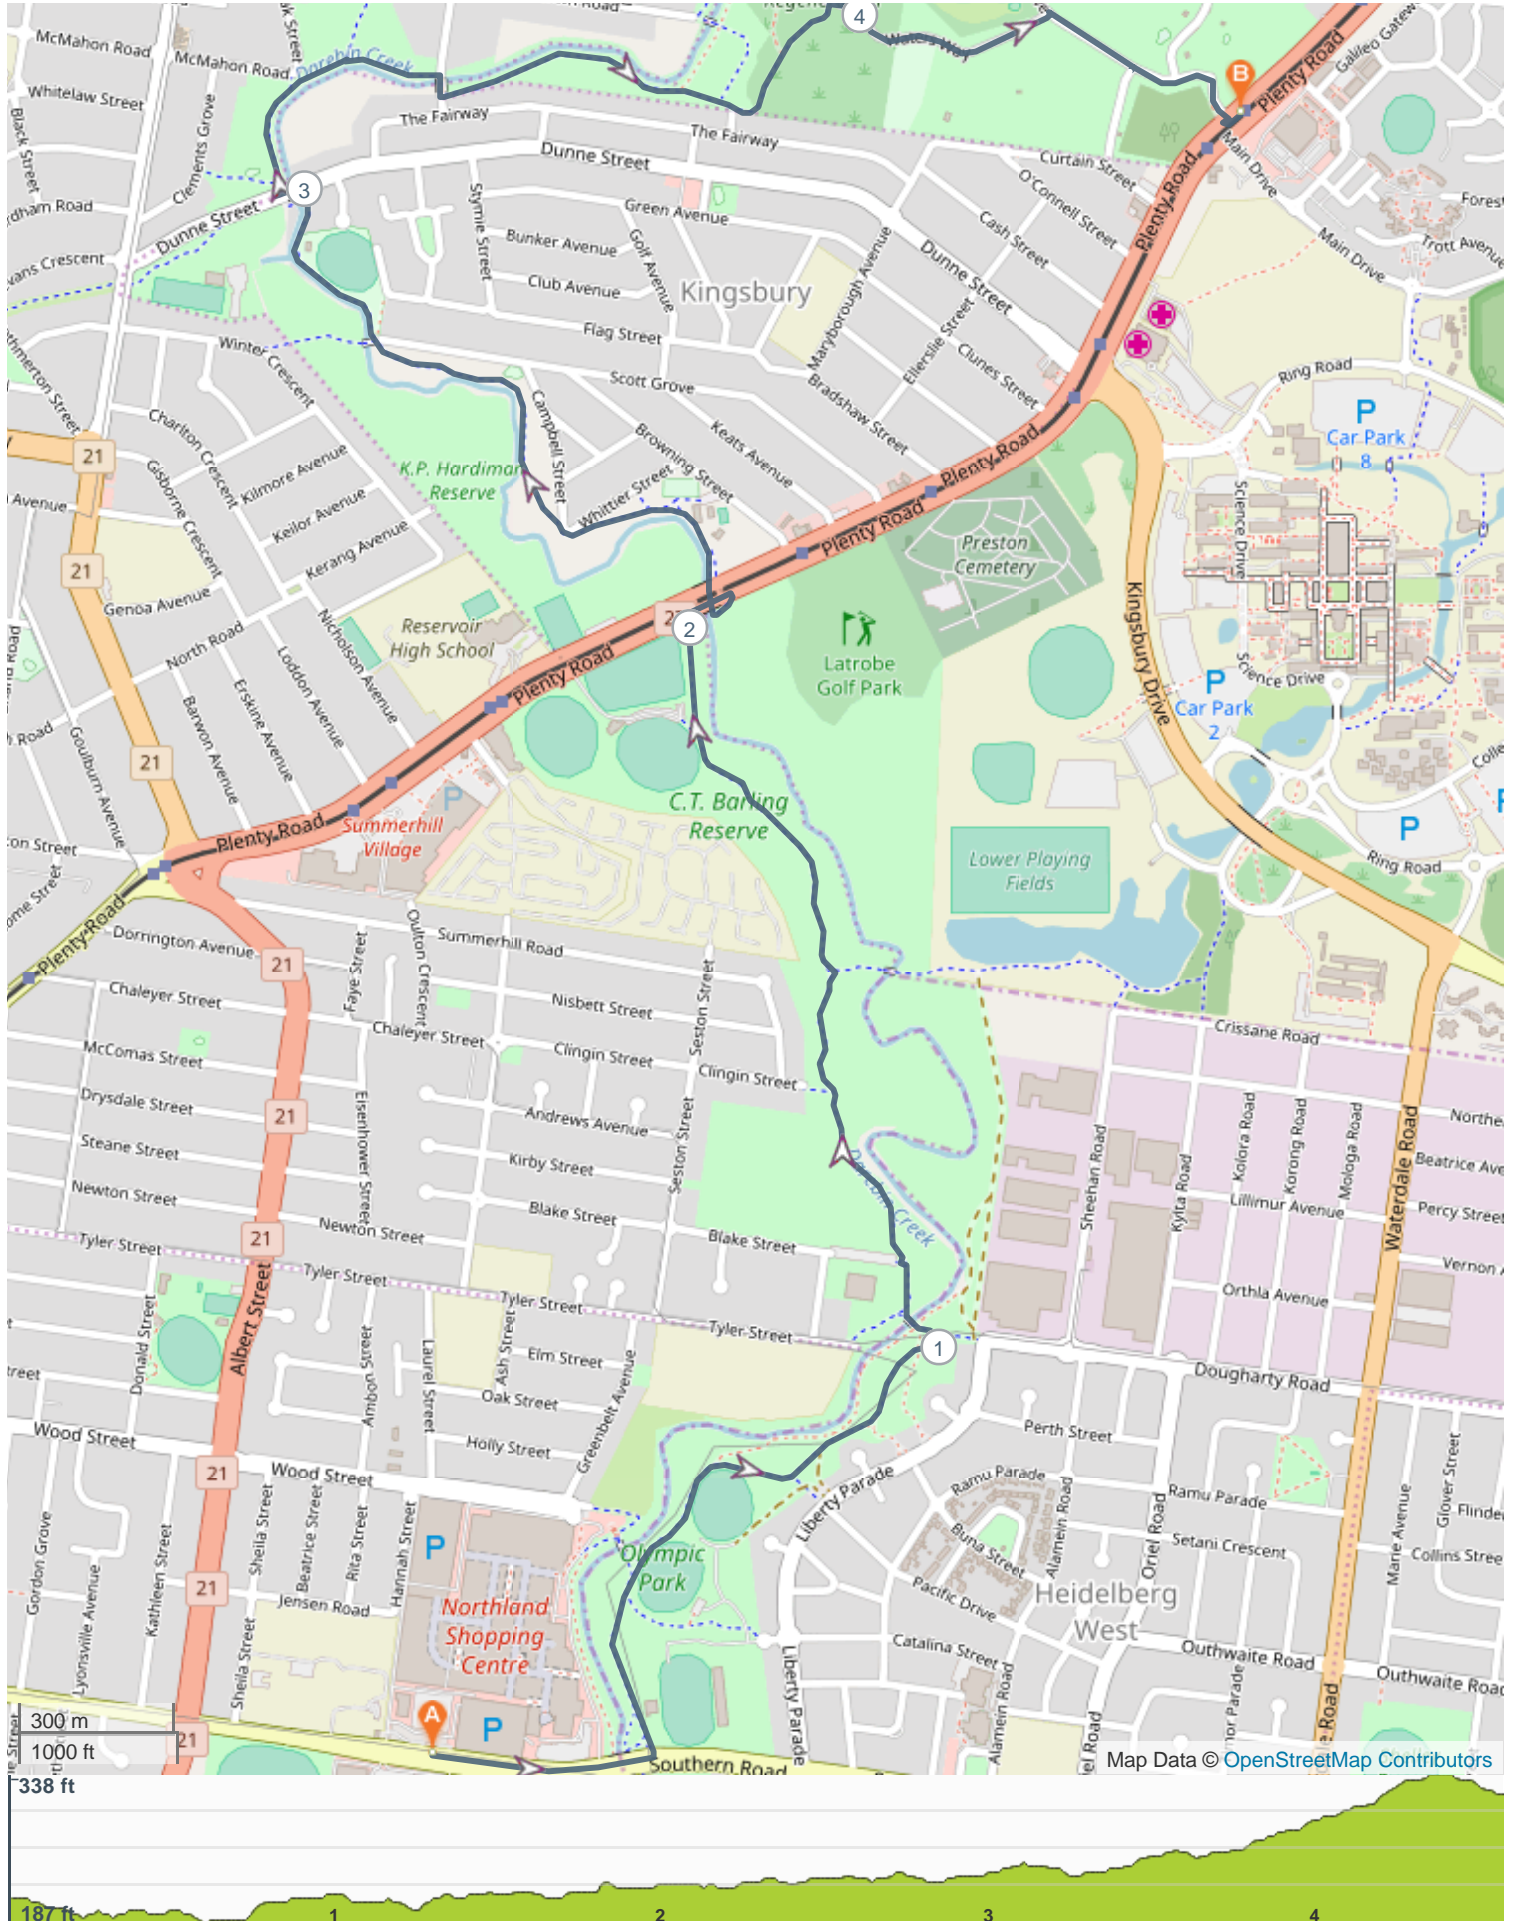

From the front of the Northland Shopping Centre in Murray Rd, head east across the Darebin Creek bridge and turn left onto the trail on the eastern side of the creek.

From here, the trail has a very good surface for walking or bike riding, and is generally well marked with good signposts to guide you all of the way until you reach Bundoora Park. There are no road crossings for the first half of the walk, until you reach Plenty Rd at the halfway point. Then there are only two smaller road crossings, before you reach Bundoora Park.

Near the end of the walk, there are several possible ways through Bundoora Park to reach Plenty Rd again, These include the option of stopping at the Bundoora Park Farm Cafe.

To return via public transport, walk back to Plenty Rd then cross and go back along the east side of La Trobe University to The Agora, turn in (left) and keep to left for 60m to find the La Trobe Uni bus terminus; take bus 250 to Northland. Alternatively, From the centre of Plenty Rd take Tram 86 (Bundoora RMIT to Docklands) down Plenty Rd to Murray Rd then take a bus east to Northland.
